MICHAEL AULD

Associate Zone Medical Director Chinook Regional Hospital, Alberta Health Services

Michael has been a Physician Quality Lead and Medical Director within AHS. Starting with the belief that people working together can accomplish much in healthcare. Lists of tasks on a workplan, not so much.

Design thinking is an opportunity to revolutionize the way we approach quality improvement for the services we provide. We can remove power gradients and work together as providers, patients and families with the ultimate goal of designing services that most closely meet the needs of people.

He has participated in hackathon's, liberating structures, and initiatives to bring design thinking to our healthcare challenges.

He is excited to be considered a Fellow of the Design Lab and hopes to live up to the honor.
