

Jodi Ploquin

Sr. Consultant, Medical Staff Diversity,
Wellness & Development, Alberta Health Services

Jodi has always been drawn to a wicked problem, I mean, why else would someone complete undergraduate and graduate degrees in physics? She is a self-proclaimed 'have fun, get 'er done' kind of girl, so the pace and creativity of design thinking is a natural fit.

Jodi has devoted her career to leadership in healthcare and the pursuit of the ultimate HMW: How Might We reliably deliver safe, quality, patient and family-centered care without burning out those who provide that care?

She is honored to be a fellow of the Design Lab, to help reshape the culture of healthcare to be more action-focused and human-centered.
