MARGARET SILLS MAEROV

Director, Quality & Education, Primary Health Care Alberta Health Services

Margie has been a passionate leader in primary care for years. Early in her career, she used design approaches by instinct... before she even knew what they were. A believer in blended approaches to change, she layers collective inpact, liberating structures and complexity thinking into daily leadership and practices.

She was taught by the late and great Brenda Zimmerman, which built her passion for the messiness in community-based care models and improvement.

Margie is currently the Director of Quality & Education in Primary Health Care. More importantly, she is a mom of three boys, loves biking, skiing and just being in the woods.
